

Diagram of principles for the model representing the articulation between the forearm and the hand

The butts for the frame limit the rotary movement in relation to a horizontal line.

The butt for the fork restrains the rotation of the fork in relation to the articulated link.

